Uvalde Barbecue Postponed.

The Board of Managers of the Soldiers Welcome Celebration have postponed the event until Tuesday, July 8th. This was made necessary by the tardy demobilization of the 141st, Infantry.

There was no assurance from Demobilization Headquarters at Camp Travis that the boys of this regiment would be discharged by the fourth, and as this section of the country contributed Company C to this regiment it was felt that the celebration should be put off a few days.

By the postponement the boys who do not live right in Uvalde will have a chance to visit home folks for a few days and then go to Uvalde to be the guest of the people of that community at the big celebration they are putting on in honor of the soldiers and sailors who have represented us in the great struggle for world freedom.

The same events that were planned for the first date will obtain on the 8th. Chaplain Bateman of the 14th Cavalry will deliver the principal address. His subject will be "The Making of a Nation". The 13th Cavalry Band from Ft. Clark will furnish the music. Hondo and Uvalde will play a game of Baseball in the afternoon, and the big goat roping contest will also be staged in the afternoon. The young people of the town will give a big dance in the evening. Every thing will be free to soldiers, sailors and their lady friends. The American Red Cross, under the supervision of Miss Grace Simpson, will operate a free canteen for this service.

While the celebration is in the special honor of all men who have been in the service, yet Uvalde wants in no small way to honor the home folks who gave these splendid sons for the service of their country.

Boys of the 36th Arrive.

Monday night the 141st Infantry of the 36th Division arrived in San Antonio. These are our boys, and for months they were expected to arrive. After their landing in New York a few cases of a contagious disease were discovered among them and their trip homeward again was delayed. Austin, San Antonio and other towns prepared to receive the boys, showing their hospitality and appreciation to the boys in a nice way. These receptions, luncheons, water melon feasts and the cheers of the crowds were thankfully enjoyed, but they are anxious to get home to their families, friends and neighbors for every one is more or less homesick and they will be glad to get out of those noisy entertainments and parades. Hondo bids the boys a quiet but hearty welcome at home.

We learn that Company C was discharged on the 4th of July. So Rollie and Booty Bless arrived here on the afternoon train, and also Monroe Ward and Jim Meyer. They are all in splendid health.

Notice of Marriage.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Allen, parents of the bride, at one p.m. June 28th, Mr. Charles G. Bendele and Mrs. Callie Martin were happily united in holy matrimony, Rev. J. T. Horger officiating.

After the marriage the bride and groom proceeded to the home of the groom about one or two miles north east of Hondo where, we trust, they will spend many prosperous, happy and joyful days together. Their many friends congratulate them and wish a long, successful and useful life in all things honorable, high and holy, which lead to Eternal life and everlasting joys beyond this world which is so strangely mingled with joy and happiness and toil and tears. May God's richest blessings abide with them. Submitted in the love of Christ, the Redeemer and Savior of a lost world.

Biry Notes.

Joe Bader, Jr., of Castroville was here for the dance Sunday.

Miss Lucille Tschirhart was here from Castroville Sunday for the dance. Mrs. Isidore Haby and son, Tonic, and daughters, Misses Laura and Minnie, and Miss Edna Sittre of Rio-medina visited Louis Keller and family Sunday and also took in the dance Sunday night.

Schott's Orchestra were Riomedina visitors Saturday.

The dance given at the Biry Gun Club Hall Sunday night in honor of the returned soldier boys was largely attended and very much enjoyed.

Miss Pauline Rihm returned to Rio-medina Monday.

Misses Bettie and Mary Breiten of Hondo were here for the dance Sunday night.

Edgar Rieber, one of the Tarpyley soldiers boys, passed through Hondo last Sunday en route home. He was a member of the 90th Division, went to France June 1918 and was overseas about one year. He was looking fine and fit, but like all the rest of the soldier boys he is glad the war is over and he is again permitted to re-enter civilian life.

Oscar Schuehle also arrived here Thursday night from over sea. With Rollie and George having come home last week, Mr. and Mrs. August Schuehle are to be congratulated on the happy return of their three sons, who bravely fought at the front and luckily were spared from injuries.

The Goldwyn Moving Pictures Distributing Corporation informed our Airdome Theatre Management that the famous film "Polly of the Circus" would be furnished to Hondo any Friday or Saturday in August.

Confirmation at the Lutheran Church will take place Sunday, July 13th. Services will begin half an hour earlier than day than usual.

Dr. O. B. Taylor, who returned from oversea, will resume practice July 7th.

Corporal Clyde Evans.

Corporal Clyde Evans, who lost his life in the great battle of St. Etienne, France, October 8, 1918, is, so far as we are advised, the only Medina county boy that was cited by the great French general, Petain, for so gallantly conduct in the battle—a quality that has made American arms invisible in every enterprise that it has ever engaged in. One dislikes to think of a soldier losing his life through treachery, and that, too, at the hands of a fellow-soldier, yet it was treachery that ended the life of this gallant young soldier. The fury of the battle had passed, the German army had been routed and Corporal Evans and another American soldier were conducting two German machine gunners they had captured to the rear; supposing all soldiers were men of honor, and as these men had surrendered as prisoners of war they did not take the precaution to search them, and to this neglect is chargeable the loss of their lives. These prisoners proved that all soldiers are not the soul of honor; while the attention of Corporal Evans and the other American soldier was temporarily withdrawn from them they whipped out concealed pistols and shot their captors dead. But their treachery availed them nought. They were immediately recaptured and an Oklahoma Indian soldier, a member of Corporal Evans' Company, took vengeance into his own hands and two well directed shots from his pistol added two more major casualties to the German army losses for the day.

Following is the communication from the War Department and the citation from Gen. Petain, which was forwarded to Mrs. Evans through American War Department:

LAND OF KOSSUTH

Mixed Races Make Up Population of Hungary.

Country Long Under German and Austrian Domination Until Magyars Secured Political Emancipation—Has Immense Mineral Riches.

Hungary has a population of 20,000,000. The area of Hungary is about equal to that of the state of New Mexico.

Hungary is unusually rich in its mineral deposits. Its mines contain almost inexhaustible quantities of gold, silver, lead, copper, iron, coal and rock salt.

Hungary, like Austria, is inhabited by several distinct races, but since the ninth century, when the Magyars invaded the region from Asia and conquered it, they have controlled the government.

Self-government through parliament in Hungary is of ancient origin, being founded upon a charter called the Golden Bull, which dates back to 1222, and is thus almost contemporary with the Magna Charta of England.

Budapest, the capital city of Hungary, consists of the sister towns of Buda and Pest. Lying on either side of the Danube, just at that point where it definitely sets south, Pest spreads itself out over the flat sandy plain on the left bank, while Buda occupies a series of small and steep hills on the right bank.

Empress Marie Theresa Germanized Hungary as completely as she Germanized all her alienated Austrian provinces, and German flourished as the official, bureaucratic, scientific and society medium in Hungary until the Magyars broke loose from Austrian thrall and secured their political emancipation. Then German went to the wall, and today there are millions in Hungary wholly ignorant of the German language.

The great national hero of Hungary was Louis Kossuth, whose memory is revered by Hungarians as that of Washington is revered by the people of the United States. Kossuth visited America in 1851, and it is a matter of history that no foreigner save Lafayette ever received at the hands of the American people such marks of esteem as were bestowed on the Hungarian exile. After the failure of the Hungarian revolution, of which he was the leader, in 1849, Kossuth sought refuge in Turkey. Austria and Russia demanded his extradition, but the Porte, resisting all threats, declined to give him up, in which attitude Turkey was supported by England and France. At length the intervention of England and the United States secured his liberation, and at the beginning of September, 1851, he was permitted to avail himself of the invitation of the United States to come to America as the guest of the nation. In New York, where he landed, he was enthusiastically received. He attended meetings and received delegations in Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Boston and numerous other places. At the national capital a great banquet was given in his honor by the members of congress.

Champion for the Whale.
Under the new law the only game that can be shot from an airplane is a whale. Also it is still permissible to bombard whales from buzz wagons or motor launches. The whale has few champions among the game lawmakers, says the Los Angeles Times. Any one stumbling on the fresh spoor of a whale is permitted to plug the animal on sight with whatever artillery he may have on hand. Why the whale should be thus marked for slaughter is not explained. Left to itself the whale is a perfectly harmless beast, having no grudge against any man. They will not even bite a loan shark unless provoked. There is no reason why they should be left at the mercy of every pea shooting aviator. That was no way for the legislators to celebrate the week set aside for being kind to dumb animals.

Germany's Big Mistake.
The distinguished Danish vegetarian, Dr. M. Hindhede, has made the interesting discovery that Germany owes her downfall to the pig. In 1914 she had over 25,000,000 pigs to feed. For the first five months of the war slaughtering was discouraged, at the cost of enormous reserves of foodstuffs. Early in 1915 this policy was reversed, and by April the number of pigs had been reduced by 35 per cent. Then a reaction in favor of pigs set in, and their numbers were kept at about 70 per cent of the pre-war figure. Not till late in 1917 and early in 1918 was the fatality of this mistake realized, and then it was too late. Doctor Hindhede argues that Denmark avoided starvation by killing her pigs early.

Tip From Little Brother.
A youngster who heard an older sister say she would like to "shake" a boy who was rather attentive decided that he had solved the problem for her. He had a little girl playmate, who, when she tires of him, runs home.

After receiving such treatment the other day, he entered the house and said: "Mother, I know how sister can shake John. Mary knows how to do it and she'll tell her."

"How does Mary do it?" mother asked.

"Oh, she just runs away. That's how you can shake anybody."—Worcester (Mass.) Evening Post.

RECORD SEEMS HARD TO SET

Just What May Be Accomplished in One Working Day Shown to Be Variable Quantity.

The most difficult task of the coal commission, says London Answers, seems to be to discover how much coal cutting is a fair day's work for a collier. It appears that in a good "piece" a man will cut four tons of coal in a shift, yet the yearly output of coal per man was only 220 tons last year.

It is rather interesting to glance at other forms of work, and to see just how much other toilers do in a day. Take plowing for instance. The man who, with a single plow, turns an acre in a day, is well earning his money. In completing his task he will have walked and guided the plow about fourteen miles.

Harvesting in the old days used to be slow work, and the man who cut by hand half an acre of wheat was doing well. With the modern horse-cutter and binder one man, with the assistance of two "shockers," has been known to cut and bind twenty acres of wheat in one day.

At one time the setting of three hundred bricks was considered a day's work for a bricklayer. But at piece-work, and using a special soft mortar, a man has been known to lay 1,400 bricks during an 8-hour day and to continue this average for days on end.

Packing fruit is no easy task. Take oranges, for instance. These average 150 to the box, and each fruit has to be separately wrapped in paper. Seventy boxes is considered a very fair day's work, but a man has been known to pack 120 boxes in a 10-hour day. He had to handle and wrap 18,000 oranges to accomplish this task.

The work our men did in France when marching in full kit is far beyond that of an ordinary laborer. The world's marching record is held by a detachment of the London Rifle Brigade. In April, 1914, these men—62 in number—marched from London to Brighton, a distance of 52 miles, in 14 hours and 23 minutes. They were in full kit, and carried rifles, a total weight of 42 pounds, yet not a man fell out.

Heroes, Every One.

In a section of the North Pennsylvania street stands on Welcome Home day, two women were much interested in the drum-major's pigeon-toed course, with his back forming a 45 degree angle with the pavement.

"Ever' one o' our soldier boys be jest in his rights if he strutted like that leader, with his stick at the head o' the band," one commented.

"Lawys, all he needs is some feathers an' he'd beat the sprucest turkey gobbler I ever seen in all my born days," her companion remarked.

A man next to them volunteered: "Well, our boys ain't goin' to strut like you say, they all got a license to; an' didn't they certainly take the goose-step out o' the German army, when they chased 'em back across the Rhine?"

"Ain't they the grandest heroes ever was?" the first woman asked.

"Bet yer life," the man agreed with pride.

"Yes, indeedy!" the other woman exclaimed.—Indianapolis News.

Some Good Out of War.

The geophone, a listening instrument developed by the French during the war to detect enemy underground mining operations, is to be used by our bureau of mines as a possible aid in locating miners who have been entombed after a disaster. A miner pounding on a coal seam can be heard with this instrument 1,200 feet away. Recently a pit boss who happened to be near while the geophone was being tested in a mine, put the instrument to his ears. He heard so distinctly that he called out in a startled tone: "Mack is tampering in a charge. We had better move away." A coal seam 300 feet thick separated Mack from the startled boss at the time.

COWBOY NOT YET EXTINCT

May Be Fewer Than Some Years Ago, but This Traveler Tells of Meeting One.

"You mean to say," I began, "that there are still real cowboys?" But as smiles were beginning to pass about the platform I desisted, realization beginning to dawn why the barber said that the men we had seen driving cattle back in Kansas would be pleased to have been called cowboys.

The trip at once began to assume a new interest, and when the mine barber came back on the platform I eyed him with something of that reserve with which one contemplates a doubtful man. But nothing could penetrate his drawing sang-froid.

At a tank station farther along there was opportunity to stretch our legs; opportunity, also, to observe at close range a bronzed, dark-haired cow-puncher who had paused on his mustang to observe the train. The barber approached him confidently.

"Neighbor," he said, "I bought a gun in K. C. Mizoo. What do you think of it?"

The puncher took the wicked 44, balanced it in the palm of his hand, twirled it around on his forefinger, and then brought it to bear upon a can lying in the road about 20 feet away. Bang! The can leaped into the air. Bang! It rolled five feet farther along. Bang! Again it flew into the air and rolled. Bang! It rolled again. Bang! The can disappeared in the dust.

"It's a good gun," said the puncher, handing it back, "only it shoots a little high."

A little high! Rather a nice criticism, I thought. The barber snapped out the cylinder, reloaded the weapon and passed silently into the background. My impression was that he was avoiding some questions on my part relative to Kansas City bad men; but I may have been wrong.

We began to fly through the level ground, perspectives on all sides dotted with peaks upon which clouds rested. Suddenly along the trail appeared an altogether amazing, unexpected, almost unbelievable spectacle—two Indians jogging along on horseback wearing moccasins, wide black trousers, red or pink shirts, their black hair secured by scarlet bands about their foreheads.—Scribner's Magazine.

Americanism in the Making.

Almost anything you can think of, it said, can be seen somewhere in that erratic historic street that strays toward the point of Manhattan land, cutting across the streets and avenues of the world's largest city in its own sweet will. Something once seen there by Mr. J. B. Kerfoot, the author of Broadway, indicates that the enterprise, the daring and adaptability to new conditions that were characteristic of the early settlers in America are still characteristic of the people who are crossing the Atlantic to our shores in the twentieth century.

One day, says Mr. Kerfoot, I saw an Indian peasant woman, fresh land from the steamer and dressed in the fete-day regalia of her native village, chase a Broadway car for a block in front of the post office. She caught up with it from behind when it stopped at Park place, failing to notice the entranceway, sped the brake handle of the rear form, threw a sturdy, red-stockinged leg over the rail, and swung herself aboard with the satisfied air of one successfully surmounted one of the early difficulties of the new country.

roadway smiled, collected her fare, went on about its business.—With Companion.

Birds Farmers' Best Friends. Examination of hundreds of stomachs of birds, taken in different localities and at all seasons, painstaking observations of the birds' habits by trained experts, have now many years been establishing, beyond question, the fact that they are of nature's most effective checks on the undue increase of insect and plant pests.

In the early days, the days before the scientific study of the habits of birds, the connection in the popular mind between birds and the sowing of seed principally took the form of speculation as to what proportion of the sown seed or its product the birds would get. Crows and blackbirds were observed to pull corn. The fact that some kernels were left in the field did not suggest to the farmer that it was the cutworm that the crows were really after, not corn.—B. S. Bowditch, in Chris-tian Herald.

Indians in United States Army. Total of about 5,000 Indians enlisted against Germany in the war, according to information given by the office of the commissioner of Indian affairs at Washington, seven hundred of them being in the service. The Indians were not segregated and there were no army units exclusively of Indians. They served in the ranks and fought beside other soldiers without regard to the fact that they were Indians. Officers of Indian superintendents reported that on June 20, 1917, the number of Indians in the United States Army was 335,908.

Rabbit skins from Australia and New Zealand were among the largest offerings in the recent international auction at St. Louis. Half a million pounds of Australian skins and 50,000 pounds from New Zealand were sold for a total of $335,000. "Wal, that's my aunt you're talking bout."

Several other questions were answered satisfactorily, when there came:

"In case of death or accident, who shall be notified?"

"My mother," immediately came from the selectman.

"But you told me just a few minutes ago that your aunt was the nearest living relative that you have," objected the officer.

HIS DREAM FADED

Soldier's View of Pure Delight Abruptly Dissipated.

Officer of the Day Had His Own Ideas Concerning the Wine Cellar and the American Fighting Man.

How would you like to have six prisoners, whom you were guarding and who apparently had no means of escape, suddenly disappear from sight, and to all appearances from the face of the earth?

Such was the experience of a Seventh Infantryman on guard not long ago.

According to the guard's own story, he was in charge of six prisoners who were digging a hole near the rear of the Liberty hall at Andernach. On three sides were walls of such height that it would be impossible for the prisoners to scale them. On the remaining side was the guard, bayonet fixed and ever on the alert for disorders among his charges.

"For an instant," said the guard, "I glanced away from my prisoners. When I again looked in their direction they were gone. For a few minutes I was almost paralyzed. I began to think I had lost my mind or that nightly recreation in the wirtschafts had permanently affected my eyesight. I knew they couldn't get over the walls. I was sure that they had not passed me, and yet in the fraction of a second they had disappeared from sight."

Visions of serving the sentences of the six fugitives flashed through the mind of the guard. Then he decided that some action must be taken, and taken immediately. He rushed to the edge of the hole and peered into its depths. At first he found no clew to the mystery. Then in one corner of the excavation he saw a few loose bricks and an opening into what seemed to be an underground passageway. With one jump he reached this opening, and shoving his gun and bayonet ahead of him, he crowded his way along a narrow brick-lined tunnel. A few steps along this and he found himself in a large cellar, amply stocked with ancient vintages from the vineyards along the Rhine.

Seated on the wine casks, and evidently very much at ease, sat the six prisoners, smiling at the discomfiture of their guardian.

With his charges once more in hand the mind of the infantryman instantly formulated a plan. Hurrying the "wilful six" back into the daylight, he began to brick up the entrance to the discovery with a plan for future reference.

Just then the officer of the day came on the scene.

Result—The secret passageway and wine cellar came into official notice, was ordered "out of bounds to the A. E. F." and Seventh Infantry dreams of a private wine cellar went the way of the goof and dodo.—From The Watch on the Rhine, Andernach, Germany.

Where Words End, Music Begins

Truly has it been said that words are but poor interpreters of emotion. Where words end, music begins; where they suggest, it realizes. It reveals us to ourselves; it controls those temperamental changes which escape all verbal analysis; it utters with a clear, vibrant voice what otherwise must remain unuttered.

All this music will do for you. But how, you ask, since you are no musician, and cannot create for yourself this music that your soul instinctively craves?

The NEW EDISON

"The Phonograph with a Soul"

has stored up in its shining black discs all the choicest music of the world's greatest musicians. And this music it will RE-CREATE for you, at your command, in your own home exactly as you would hear it on the opera stage or concert platform. Two thousand tests have proven that this is true. Come to our store and be convinced.

United States Tire News.
A resourceful motorist whose car has been stuck in the mud does not always have to fall back on a pair of mules to get free. For such an emergency the United States Tire Company offers some suggestions that have proved valuable.

The first calls for having stored away somewhere in the car a stack of old newspapers. When the car gets stuck and the wheels refuse to take hold, feed in some of the old papers between the tires and the mud. Usually only a few will have to be worked in before the wheels will begin to grip and the car start forward. This method of handling a difficult situation is so simple and so uniformly successful, that every motorist should know of it and carry a pile of old newspapers, unless he is equipped with some other apparatus for such a contingency.

Here is the other method suggested by the United States Tire Company: Put the car in low, and if you cannot feed the gas with your foot evenly, so that the wheels will revolve slowly, put your emergency brake on. Do not put it on so that the wheels will not revolve at all, but tightly enough to keep them from revolving rapidly. With the wheels turning slowly, the maximum pull is delivered to them by having the car in low gear, and so long as they turn slowly they can get the benefit of the tremendous power.

It is not always wise to fill the hole with stones or bricks, for their rough edges are hard on tires. Small branches of trees are better, as they offer much better tractive space. Should this method fail, quite often a slight push that would not much more than move a baby buggy will furnish just the added amount of power necessary to get the car going.

Nature placed the growth-promoting "vitamins" in the oil of the cod-fish—this explains why

A Celebration.

Devine, Texas, June 30, 1919. Mr. and Mrs. August Schott entertained their relatives and friends in honor of their son, Willie, who has returned from overseas' service. And a big dinner was served which every one enjoyed very much. Before the happy crowd was seated to the splendid dinner the following letter was read by his brother, Eddie Schott, which was contributed by Mr. M. A. Keller:

June 18, 1919.

Mr. and Mrs. Aug. Schott,
Dear Friends:
My heart rejoices with yours today, in celebrating an event worthy for your son that crossed the ocean to do his duty for God and Country. Has returned to be held in the arms of Mother. We all must now thank our Heavenly Father for protecting and guiding your beloved son. Who today is healthy and happy. The prayers that you have offered to Heavenly Father above were heard. For had it not been for your Faith, Your son would be to-day on the field of battle. Never again to return in the arms of Mother. Who so tenderly cared for him while young. But alas! this will be only for a short time. As not very far distant, he shall again depart. But this time not in line with the army. But in the arms of one so true and dear. My heart rejoices with yours today, and again when the day of union comes. Thanks to Heavenly Father for safe return.

Your friend,
M. A. KELLER.

Plant Food and its Functions.

All foods required by man, animals and plants comes from but one source, and that is the soil.

There is a close relation existing between those, as all require food for their existence and development.

These products exist under different forms and conditions. The study of this question is of itself very instructive and entertaining.

If allowed to study the question from our standpoint, plant life would seem to be the basis of development and growth of the human race and of animal life.

The first conditions of animal life are nutritious matters as well as oxygen which must be introduced into the system.

Taking plants to be the basis of food, we find that plants procure their food from different sources, the air, the soil and the water. These therefore are the three principle elements nature has provided from which plant food is derived.

Plant food in the soil exists as a solid, and must be dissolved before assimilated.

That which is in the air is in the gaseous form and eventually is returned to the air, after its various functions have been utilized in different forms.

The same is true of the elements which come from water.

Chemical researches have shown that all such parts of plants as can afford nutriment to animals contain certain constituents which are rich in nitrogen.

The function of plants as grown from the soil is for the support of the human and animal creation.

This being so there is, as it were, a rotation by which plant food is carried first from the soil to the plant, from the plant to the animal and human creation, and then these constituents of plant food return to the soil through the medium of air and water.

Thus we find the circulation of food through the different stages returns to the soil.

Citizens' Motor Car Co.

Nature has thus provided for all creative life a marvelous form of existence. Plant life is the basis of our deductions being the basis of our existence, we should strive to develop plants to the greatest perfection.

To aid in the development of plants we grow (field crops). We should find it to our advantage to help nature in the development of plant life.

This can be done by improved cultural methods and the application of manures.

Animal manures contain the essence of plant food, nitrogen, phosphate and potassium.

The original plant food coming from the soil having passed into the plant, is used by the animal for its substance, and the residue or excreta is again returned to the soil.

This process provides for soil fertility but when the manures are wasted then soil sterility follows.

This relation of plant food to the growth and development of the higher and lower stages of life can be studied with interest by the farmer.

There is another point that must be considered to aid the development of plants so that they may assimilate their food to advantage, and that is the keeping of the soil in a proper state of cultivation, to admit air and water which are needed by the plant to assist in the assimilation of food.

Cultivation is the economy of force. Science teaches the simplest means of obtaining the greatest effect with the smallest expenditure of power. The unprofitable exertion of power, the waste of force in agriculture, and in other branches of industry is characteristic of an undeveloped state.

The Joy of Living.

To enjoy life we must have good health. No one can reasonably hope to get much real pleasure out of life when his bowels are clogged a good share of the time and the poisons that should be expelled are absorbed into the system, producing headache and indigestion. A few doses of Chamberlain's Limiment will move the bowels, strengthen the digestion and give you a chance to realize the real joy of living. Try it.

Peace was signed finally by German delegates last Saturday afternoon. Hermann Mueller and Johannes Bell, foreign minister and colonial secretary, signed their names for the German people. President Wilson followed and then representatives of the other allied powers. The Chinese delegation only refused to sign the document, but remained in France, and it is still possible that they will sign later. Before Gen. Smut, who represents the Union of South Africa, gave his signature, he protested against the hard terms imposed on the German people; but he signed. After the German delegates learned that the usual military honors to delegates would not be accorded to the Germans, and that they were ordered to enter the palace through a side door, they protested against this arrangement. A French liaison officer then, in compromise, furnished a guard of honor for the Germans on the way out of the Hall of Mirrors, through the back door again, of course.

Weekly Health Talks

Where Most Sickness Begins and Ends

BY FRANKLIN DUANE, M. D.

It can be said broadly that most human ills begin in the stomach and end in the stomach. Good digestion means good health, and poor digestion means bad health. The minute your stomach fails to properly dispose of the food you eat, troubles begin to crop out in various forms. Indigestion and dyspepsia are the commonest forms, but thin, impure blood, headaches, backaches, pimples, blotches, dizziness, belching, coated tongue, weakness, poor appetite, sleeplessness, coughs, colds and bronchitis are almost as common. There is but one way to have good health, and that is to put and keep your stomach in good order. This is easy to do if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a wonderful tonic and blood purifier, and is so safe to take, for it is made of roots and herbs. Dr. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., stands behind this standard medicine, and it is good to know that so distinguished a physician is proud to have his name identified with it. When you take Golden Medical Discovery, you are getting the benefit of the experience of a doctor whose reputation goes all around the earth. Still more, you get a temperance medicine that contains not a drop of alcohol or narcotic of any kind. Long ago Dr. Pierce combined certain valuable vegetable ingredients—without the use of alcohol—so that these remedies always have been strictly temperance medicines.

If piles are torturing you, get and use Pierce's Anodyne Pile Ointment. The quick relief it gives is hard to believe until you try it. If constipated, Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be taken while using Anodyne Pile Ointment. Few indeed are the cases which these splendid remedies will not relieve and usually overcome. They are so good that nearly every drug store has them for sale.

GIRLS! LEMON JUICE

IS A SKIN WHITENER

How to make a creamy beauty lotion for a few cents.

The juice of two fresh lemons strained into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white makes a whole quart pint of the most remarkable lemon skin beautifier at about the cost one must pay for a small jar of the ordinary cold creams. Care should be taken to strain the lemon juice through a fine cloth so no lemon pulp gets in, then this lotion will keep fresh for months. Every woman knows that lemon juice is used to bleach and remove such blemishes as freckles, sallowness and tan and is the ideal skin softener, whitener and beautifier.

Just try it! Get three ounces of orchard white at any drug store and two lemons from the grocer and make up a quarter pint of this sweetly fragrant lemon lotion and massage it daily into the face, neck, arms and hands.

Organization and Co-operation.

By KENYON L. BUTTERFIELD.
From the Farmer and the New Day.

The Object.

The main object of organizing the rural community is to try to secure the co-operation of all associated effort and individual influence on behalf of a generally accepted plan or program for improving the community at all points. By reason of such co-operative endeavor, should emerge at last a group of people with one mind as to the desirability of working together for one large purpose and in the finest spirit of co-operation. Remember again that organization is merely the co-operation of all the people. It is an assembling of all factors that make for better working and living together. It implies a group of people working as one. The ideal is the most complete possible co-operation of all individuals and groups in a small natural area, making their best efforts in the common task of securing the greatest possible improvement in all things that make for the common good. (p 165)

* * * * Each community should have an objective or goal somewhat as follows:

1. Geographically, to map out a natural and convenient area which permits all the people living within its boundaries to get together frequently.

2. Economically, a program of the business of the community which is best adapted to secure the greatest efficiency in the use of the land and in methods.

3. Socially, a group in which the people plan together for self-study, for sociable life, for all forms of improvement.

4. Politically, a group who, while they may not agree on national policies, are after all willing to study and discuss not only the measures that interest them locally, but the significant questions of the day.

5. Spiritually, a community or group feeling and sentiment, cherishing the ambition to have all individuals and agencies seeking their own best interests wholly in relation to the interests of the entire community. (p 182)

Theoretically, the ideal marketing machinery for farm products would consist of a thoroughly organized group of agricultural producers, dealing with equally well-organized groups or communities of consumers, with only such intermediaries, and these also presumably well organized, as are absolutely necessary to the most effective handling of the product from grower to consumer. Through storages owned in part by producer and in part by consumers, and with large collection units or centers managed by producers associations, and large distributing centers or units managed by consumers' agencies, a large part of the present machinery of the middlemen would be displaced. Public markets would be a factor in the plan. Then with the government owning or controlling the means of transportation, we would have a thoroughly democratic and effective scheme of distribution of food products.

Practically we are a long distance from the realization of such a well-balanced scheme, but government may at least encourage and aid the organization of both producers and consumers, and through its police power abolish the more flagrant abuses that arise in the present distributing process. Much will be gained by a more complete system of information, gathered and disseminated by government, relative to food needs, food supplies, food prices, food movements. Fortunately, a good beginning has been made in this field. Publicly owned, abattoirs, storages and warehouses we may be obliged to have if private interests do not bend to reasonable demands from the farmers for fair dealing. (p 198)

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been unable to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only specific cure known in the medical fraternity, Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system there by destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting him in his work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

EASY TO CAPTURE PERFUME

Simple Method by Which Lovers of Sweet Odors May Gratify Their Olfactory Sense.

Few people know how easy it is to capture the fragrance of real flowers.
The first step in the plan is to procure a glass funnel. The small end of this instead of opening should be drawn out to a fine point.
Some means must be adopted to maintain the funnel in an upright position.
A little stand made of wooden uprights and wire is shown in the illustration. Any kinds of highly scented flowers, such as roses, may be gathered;
these should be in fresh condition as, just after opening, the fragrance is at its best. Place these in a vase filled with water so that they will not wither. Now get some ice and crush this into small fragments, using it to fill up the glass funnel. At the same time place some receptacle under the funnel. Sprinkle salt on the ice and then move the flowers and the funnel into close proximity.

After a while it will be seen that the moisture from the atmosphere is condensed on the outside of the funnel, the surface of which is chilled by the ice. The ethereal odor of the flowers combines with this liquid which slowly trickles down by drops into the receptacle. When a sufficient quantity is secured this may be mixed with about an equal quantity of pure alcohol.
The mixture should then be placed in bottles, when it will keep for an indefinite time. In this way all kinds of flower perfume may be captured with the greatest ease.

VOILE D'AMOUR HEARD AGAIN

Musical Instrument of the Past Has Found Favor With Prominent American Composers.

The viola d'amour is a musical instrument which had become practically obsolete until Charles Martin Loeffler, the American composer, wrote a part for it in his dramatic poem, "La Morte de Tintagiles." The instrument had not been recognized since Bach placed it in his orchestration of "St. John's Passion" and Meyerbeer employed it to accompany an air in the first act of "Les Huguenots." The unique feature of the viola d'amour is its system of sympathetic strings. Beneath its seven strings which are sounded with a bow, are stretched seven steel strings supposed to vibrate with the bowed ones and enhance the power of the sound. The strings are tuned strictly in the key of D major, the lowest string being the D, one tone below the Violin E string. Berlioz speaks of the instrument's "sweet, seraphic tone." It is said to be remarkably adapted to playing chords, arpeggios and harmonics.

Full Explanation.

Private Hodges sat in his hut trying to clean his rifle. Suddenly he heard his name called.

"Here!" he shouted, running out.
"Wanted in the orderly room," said the sergeant; and Hodges followed him with bulging eyes and a sad heart.
But he cheered up when the adjutant addressed him thus:

"I have a letter from your father.
He is anxious to purchase your discharge, as he needs you to help him in his business," remarked the adjutant looking at him keenly. "Now, Private Hodges, what is your father's walk in life?"

Hodges eyes bulged more than ever.
"P-please, sir," he blurted, "he's b-b-bandy!"

Believed in Following Orders.

He was a new but conscientious soldier on duty as sentry one evening at one of the national camps. As an officer appeared the "rookie" called "Halt!"

The officer obeyed and the sentry called again, "Halt!"

"See here," said the officer, "I halted the first time!"

"Yes; but the sergeant told us to say 'Halt' three times and then fire."
Needless to say the officer did not linger.

THRIFT IS POWER

"Meats in Storage"

Every working day of the year 75,000,000 pounds of meat are required to supply home and export needs—and only 10 per cent of this is exported.

These facts must be kept in mind when considering the U. S. Bureau of Markets report that on June 1, 1919, there were 1,348,000,000 pounds of meats in cold storage. If the meat in storage was placed on the market it would only be 20 days' supply.

This meat is not artificially withheld from trade channels to maintain or advance prices.

Meats in storage consist of—

- 65 per cent (approximate) hams, bacon, etc., in process of curing. It takes 30 to 90 days in pickle or salt to complete the process.
- 10 per cent is frozen pork that is to be cured
later in the year.
- 6 per cent is lard. This is only four-fifths of a pound per capita, and much of it will have to go to supply European needs.
- 19 per cent is frozen beef and lamb, part of which is owned by the Government and was intended chiefly for over-seas shipment. If this were all diverted to domestic trade channels, it would be only 1 1/2 lbs. per capita—a 3 days' supply.
100%

From this it will be seen that "meats in storage" represent merely unfinished goods in process of curing and the working supply necessary to assure the consumer a steady flow of finished product.

LINK FROM EAST TO WEST

Historic Occasion When Great Transcontinental Railroad Lines Were Formally Connected.

The ground for the railroad through to the Pacific coast was broken at Sacramento, Cal., and Omaha, Neb., January 8, 1863. Then began the race between the Union Pacific and the Central Pacific to cover the greatest mileage of construction. The rails of the two lines met at Promontory point, 1,055 4/5 miles from Omaha and 690 miles east of Sacramento. Gov.
Leland Stanford, in behalf of the Central Pacific, now known as the Southern Pacific, drove the last spike connecting the roads, using a silver mallet.
Telegraph wires were so attached as to announce the blows as they fell. Two hundred and twenty guns were fired from the batteries at San Francisco on receipt of the signals.
The golden spike was made of 23 $20 gold pieces and was worth $460.
On it was engraved, "The last spike; may God continue the unity of the country as these railroads unite the two great oceans of the world."

In those days many of the engines were wood-burning and only three or four cords of wood could be carried on the engine tender. It took three days and nights to travel on the train from Salt Lake to the Missouri river.

Now the trip is made in 36 hours.

THE LORELEI AND THE YANKEE

She sat on a crag in the gloaming,
And sang to the soldier below,
The birds to the forest were homing,
And the clouds held a warm afterglow.

The Rhine flowed majestic, eternal,
To the arms of the sea in its flight,

And vine clad the hills in their vernal Green dress were all flushed for the night.

"O linger, and leave not forever,
Fair youth, with the clear, steady eyes!

So long have I sat by the river
And waited thy coming with sighs.

Come, rest in my arms and remember Night, naught but our moments of bliss!

And the snows and ice of December
Will dissolve in the fire of our kiss."

He harked to the Lorelei's wooring,

But smiled, quite unmoved by her plea-

"Say, what do you think you are to me?"

He said, "spouting German to me?"

I don't like your looks or your manner,

While as for the Rhine, it lacks style,
